Wanes and waxes

The Moon is the most classic and charming of all natural shapes. With its constant rhythm it performs its eternal dance : it wanes and waxes, disappears and reappears. This continuous return to the original shape, this endless regularity causes the Moon to perform a pirouetting dance of modular geometries. And it is these geometries that give rise to the new reception system from Rockworth.

Luna Wood

LUNA has a double face, so it appears in two versions that express the product's versatility not only from a functional viewpoint but also in terms of appearance, thanks to the use of materials which are in some way the opposite of one another. The warmth of the wood finish sets off the technical look of the methacrylate.

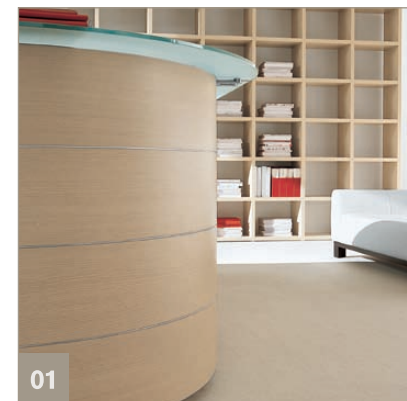

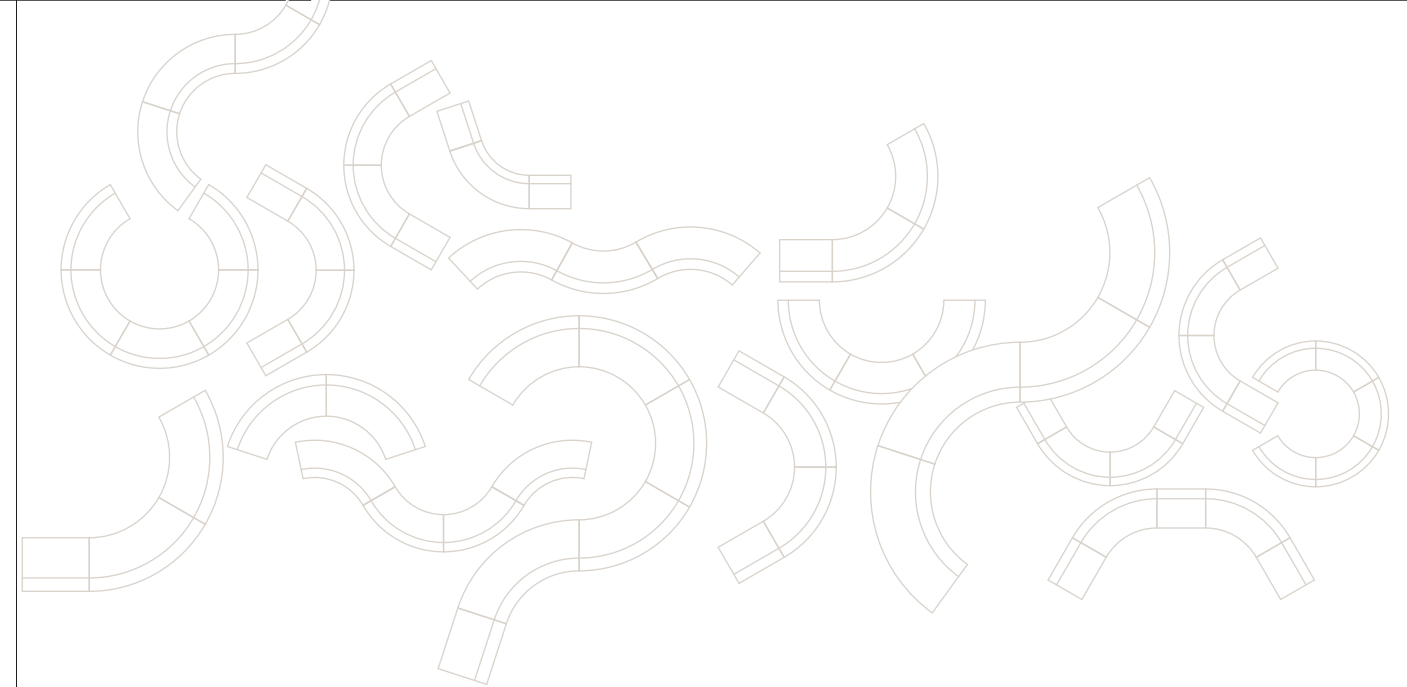

Appears and disappears

LUNA makes use of its rhythm and modularity to furnish spaces both large and small. The height of 113 cm. favours personal inter-relationships, and thanks to the straight modules in lengths of 100 and 160 cm and the 60° and 90° curved models, it traces custom-made geometries, creating solutions that are attractive, functional and re-configurable.

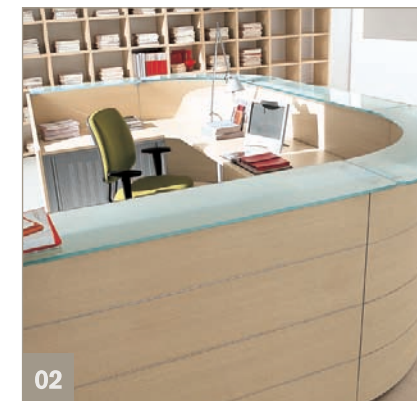

Luna

provides special attention for the physically impaired user by making available a special module.
